

♂ = male ♀ = female
 (dec); deceased
 Yellow / underlined = chief lineage
 Red = slaughtered by brigands
 Pink = married into clan

JACKURON'S STORY – PT.1 THE CLAN MASSACRE

The Blacksky clan was attacked by soldiers from another country invading the lands. They killed many and took others as slaves, including Jakuron, who arrived late to the attack whilst returning from hunting.

He saw them kill his father Mato, his Uncle Misu and cousins Atsadi (the chief's son) and Tuwa and Nish (your cousins). Jakuron doesn't know what has happened to his remaining close family such as his brother Lind, or his cousins Skah, Goga or Shadi. He also suspects that his great grandmother Glongun Firebrand may still be alive (she was a recluse and lived remote from the clan, surrounded by a reputation for witchcraft).

As a slave, Jakuron was taken abroad and worked initially as manual labour, and later as a crude pit fighter in gladiatorial arenas. He fought four fights to the death, winning his freedom after 3 years of slavery. Once free, he joined a band of mercenaries bound to the southern continent of Banath, to fight alongside Bessany troops.

He is now returning from that war, and is searching for surviving members of the Blacksky clan.

THE BLACKSKY CLAN DYNASTY

Yellow shaded boxes highlight the Clan Chief succession. The Chieftom passes from Chief to eldest son on the death of the Chief; Atsadi Blacksky would've therefore inherit the title when Kalian dies, had he not been murdered by brigands. Chieftom will be passed to Jakuron's brother Lind in this case.

Women marrying into a clan (pink boxes) take the new clan name as their middle name (e.g. Yodrug Blacksky Icedale).

Jakuron's relatives

- Glongun Firebrand Blacksky (great grandmother); an ancient woman of great wisdom that many clans turn to for advice and judgment. She sits on the Clan Althing (Court of Law & Justice) but lives remotely from the clan, with suspicions of witchcraft surrounding her
- Pazi Blacksky Daggerhill (grandmother); frail, supported by the clan in her dotage.
- Macha Blacksky (great aunt); never married, practices as a herbalist for the Blacksky clan.
- Kalian Blacksky (uncle); current Chief of the Blacksky clan, married to Dhaha Blacksky Axesplint, with two sons (your cousins) Atsadi and Skah. Jakuron saw Atsadi killed by the brigands in the clan massacre
- Mato (father), married to Ro Blacksky Thornburr (mother), Jakuron saw Mato killed in the clan massacre
- Misu (uncle) married to Yodrug Blacksky Icedale, with 4x children (your cousins) including Shadi, Jakuron's best friend since childhood. Jakuron saw Misu, Tuwa and Nish killed in the clan massacre, amongst others.
- Lind Blacksky (brother); has a son (by deceased Tella Blacksky Ashface), Jakuron doted on his nephew Dulf whenever he sees him; he must be 8 years old now, if he survived. Dulf's mother, Tella, died in childbirth.

BLACKSKY CLAN LAW

Chieftom passes to oldest son (e.g. Atsadi), unless the death of the eldest son prevents this, in which case it will pass to the next eldest son (e.g. Skah). If there are no sons, or no surviving sons, then the eldest male cousin will inherit the title (e.g. Lind)

Daughters are not eligible for Chieftom.

Chiefs can be challenged by (male) clan members either in open combat, or through proof of major dishonour and misdeed that brings disrepute to their clan. This Proof must be judged by the Clan Althing (Court of Clan Law & Justice). Abdication is another route by which Chieftom can be revoked (by tradition to the eldest son).

JAKURON'S STORY – PT.2 THE JOURNEY FROM HASAN

Jakuron had been working as a mercenary for the Bessany Army in Hasan, joining an ill matched band of brawlers, thieves and villains. Returning from the Southern Mountains, the patrol paused to help tackle a fire at a dwarven mining compound. Afterwards, the patrol Captain ordered the massacre of the dwarfs, stealing a dozen crates of purified mineral ingots from the compound. The Captain suspected the crates would have great value, although nobody in the patrol understood the use or purpose of the haul. This act did not sit well with Jakuron, whose clan system holds honour and honesty in high esteem.

Whilst resting in Port Hasan, awaiting a return ship, the word reached the City Guards of a dwarf massacre to the south of Nalan. Arrest warrants were issued for a party of Mercenaries in possession of crated minerals. The mercenaries had to pay through the nose to board the ship Amaphaza at short notice with the crates, and awaited its departure to the north, hiding in their cabins.

Luckily, the Bessany troops that boarded immediately before the ship pushed off were not aware of the warrant, and were happy to trade war stories with the mercenaries during the long journey home. When the Bessany troops decided to overthrow the Captain and crew, and take charge of the vessel (after several weeks floundering, lost), the mercenaries naturally helped enforce the mutiny, on the promise of financial reward upon disembarkation.

After the shipwreck, Jakuron doesn't know the fate of the mercenaries – who survived, if any – or where the stolen crates lie. He wishes to find the remaining members of his clan, to see his mother, brother and cousins again and to avenge the brigands that attacked the homestead.